Remembrance Day Service.

Remembrance Day was observed at the Knox United Church on Sunday evening, November 12th. The church, which was beautifully decorated, was filled beyond capacity, and members of the Didsbury Branch of the Canadian Legion, attended in a body.

Following the devotional period, which was conducted by the Pastor, Rev. A. J. Mitchell, the two minute silence was observed. Dr. H. C. Lisenner sang the "Last Post" and Reville, and Mr. A. Robertson sang the Commemorative Hymn, "O Valiant Hearts".

The guest speaker was, Mr. Hugh Farthing, M. L. A. of Calgary, whose inspiring address was listened to with close attention.

Miss E. Lisenner, Mr. Thoman and Miss D. Ranton rendered several musical selections on cello, violin and piano respectively, and Miss Saugstad sang "My Own Dear Land" in her usual pleasing fashion.

On Saturday Nov. 11th, at 11 a.m. the usual ceremony was carried out at the monument by members of the Didsbury Branch of the Canadian Legion. Wreaths provided by the Legion and the Provincial Government, were laid by Messrs. Lowrie and J. Robertson. The Last Post and Reveille were sounded by Dr. H. C. Lisenner and the Memorial Prayer offered by the Legion Chaplain, Rev. A. J. Mitchell.

Turkey Shoot.

The turkey shoot at the Butte on Saturday was quite a success and the local sports kept the traps and rifle cages busy all afternoon.

Thirty-five turkeys and thirty other birds were shot for in the competition. Jim Cathiness took the lead at trap winning 4 turkeys, Milt Ford was top man with the rifle, winning 6 birds and Dave McKen second with 5 birds.

The shoot was conducted on a non-profit basis. The total receipts were $70.75 and the total expense $77.25.

Successful Celebration.

A very large attendance greeted the play, "Who Cares?" presented by the members of the Canadian Legion at the Opera House on Friday evening.

This play is the fourth of its kind to be presented here, written around the scenes of the Great War, and introduction of the old army songs and jokes always appeals to the audience.

The first part found the boys in billets behind the line, and the clever way in which the parts were presented brought back many a remembrance to the boys who were "over there."

The second half a "disorderly room" made quite a big hit with the audience, and the leading parts were well taken by Messrs. Jack Robertson and E. Cogwell, who were well supported by the rest of the boys.

The play was directed by Mr. J. H. Lowrie, and he is to be complimented on the able manner in which it was presented.

The dance that followed the show and the music supplied by the Calgary "Maple Leafs" was greatly enjoyed.

Local Judging Team Goes East on Friday

Tom Clarke and Delbert Levagood the team who won the provincial dairy calf judging contest, leave on Friday for Toronto, where they will compete for the Canadian championship at the Royal Fair.

Delbert left last Friday to join Tom at Edmonton, where they will receive special coaching to prepare them for the competition at Toronto.

We wish them every success and hope they will bring the honors to Didsbury.

Shall There Be Peace?

The sudden and startling announcement by Germany on October 14 of her withdrawal from the disarmament conference and of her intention to resign her membership in the League of Nations, coupled with the immediate dissolution of the Reichstag and the calling of a general election to record the approval of the German people to these far-reaching and momentous decisions, throws a new note of alarm and disquietude into a world already distressed with a multiplicity of problems. For months past the leading statesmen of the world have been striving to avert another war, and to bring the nations into agreement in regard to disarmament in order, not only to ease the financial burden which such armaments impose, but to provide assurance of future peace. Germany's precipitate action endangers the success of these efforts which, in many ways, were not too promising in any event.

What can Canada do to help avert such a disaster as another world war? As a matter of fact, can the people of this Dominion do anything? Nothing spectacular perhaps; nothing possibly of a direct nature. Nevertheless, neither Canada nor other nations smaller and less important in the world arena than the great powers, display goodwill towards other nations, and prove by our acts that we desire the largest and freest intercourse and co-operation with them; that we recognize their problems and are willing to help in their solution; that we are not taking a purely selfish position in our international relationships; then, Canada will make friends, will extend existing friendships, will increase its influence with other nations, and will be in a position to do much to maintain peace and banish war.

Following the announcement of Germany's intentions, Hon. Arthur Henderson, British chairman of the world disarmament conference in what a Press correspondent at Geneva described as swift and emphatic phrase, demanded a new effort for disarmament. Mr. Henderson's words are addressed to all peoples and nations. Canada included, giving heed to them is one way in which Canada may at this time help prevent a recurrence of war. It is important that those words should reach as many people as possible, thus we aid in the good work by passing them on to the readers of this column.

"My message to you," Mr. Henderson told a great peace delegation, "is that disarmament must go on and the League covenant must not be treated as a scrap of paper. It cost ten million dead and twenty million wounded to bring the League into being. We will not break faith with the dead who fell that there should be no more war. We will not suffer the hope that peace will be killed. We will not let the world plunge into barbarism through another world war."

"To you who represent public opinion, I would say, nail your flag to the mast of the League. Make the will to peace stronger and more steadfast than the will to war. Every task or organizing peace must spur us to further efforts. Every delay or defeat must call forth fresh reserve, stubborn and relentless energy."

"We are faced with a situation that makes it necessary to go down to fundamentals. We must think things out afresh. We must search our own hearts and consciences. We must take our stand and tell the world where we stand. The withdrawal of Germany makes it necessary to ask ourselves what it is we are trying to do in Geneva."

"What is the enterprise to which the civilized world has been committed since humanity emerged from the greatest and most terrible war in history? The answer is we are endeavoring to organize peace."

The enterprise was not confined to members of the League, he went on, but the League was the core and the basis of a collective peace system. "So long as each nation is the judge of its own rights to free arms and uses its arms as it sees fit, war is inevitable. However just its cause or good its intentions, no government can be trusted to remain loyal to the cause of peace if it finds the collective peace system to which the world is now pledged. A country which rejects that system, whatever its intentions is inevitably encouraging its citizens to regard war as legitimate and inevitable."

Mr. Henderson's message calls for a reaffirmation by Canada of its unwavering loyalty to the League of Nations, of its determination to prevent war by the last chance of its strength, and to promote peace in all its many manifestations.

His concise statement of the enterprise in which the civilized world has been engaged since the end of the Great War, namely, to organize peace, should impress itself on the minds of every Canadian. The need of an assured peace is what the world needs more than anything else. It is more important than health, more important than the abolition of tariffs, more important than starting changes in our political, economic and social order, and it is more important because it is the absence of an assurance of peace and the fear of war at any moment, that is the cause of the existing world depression. It is that fear of war which is the stumbling block to overcoming the depression. And until that fear is removed the depression will continue regardless of what may be in vogue.

Any Looseness of the Bowels Is Always Dangerous

When the bowels become loose and diarrhoeal, dysentery, summer complaint and other bowel troubles set in, immediate attention should be given and the discharges checked before they become serious.

To check these untoward discharges there is a remedy in Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, a remedy that has been on the market for the past 88 years. It is rapid, reliable and effective in its action. A few doses is generally all that is required to give relief. Get it at your drug or general store; put up only by The T. Blames Faulty Thermometers

Scientist States Winter Not As Cold In North As Reported

Winter in the north country is warmer than many people believe. Tall stories of record low temperatures are due, in many cases, to faulty thermometers in the opinion of Dr. J. M. Stagg, leader of the British polar year scientists who spent 13 months at Fort Rae, North West Territories, studying weather conditions.

Dr. Stagg said he and his colleagues were surprised the ground temperature was as high in winter time as they found it. He believed inaccurate instruments used in the north made the temperature appear much lower than it was actually. Lowest temperature recorded by them at Fort Rae was 46 below zero.

A Rare Painting

Portrait Of King Henry Eighth Found Under Peculiar Circumstances

Removal of four coats of paint from a portrait of King Henry VIII, has revealed what is claimed to be a masterpiece from the brush of the great Hans Holbein, the "Merry Monarch's" court painter. The portrait, apparently dated 1542, shows the coronet ruler distinctly gayly than any picture extant.

The painting belongs to Geoffrey Howard, of Castle Howard, near York, and is a half-length portrait of the oft-married king who ruled England from 1509 to 1547.

"PERSONS NOT FAT LIVE LONGEST"

Eminent Physician Declares

In a recent lecture before the American Academy of Medicine, a prominent physician stated that persons who aren't fat live the longest.

Common sense confirms this. Insurance companies often reject overweight felts, or charge higher premiums on account of the risk. Fat crowds out wisdom, body organs—it slows you down and puts unnecessary strain on the heart. A host of ailments, such as pneumonia, acidity, shortness of breath and lassitude are often associated with fat.

So get rid of this dangerous, unhealthy fat. There's no reason why you shouldn't, when science has given you this safe, effective treatment—a half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water first thing every morning.

This healthy "little daily dose" of Kruschen keeps the system free from harmful toxins. It helps to re-establish normal and proper body functioning. It keeps you feeling fine and fit all the time. Kruschen actively takes the place of sluggish indolence all while you lose excess fat gradually and without discomfort.

Control Milk Prices

A drive of Fraser Valley milk producers for a minimum price for their product was climaxed at a meeting of representatives from all over the valley. The following resolution was passed: "That this meeting proceed to form a 'One Big Union' for the purpose of fixing the price of fluid milk and stabilizing it at 55 cents per pound butter fat in Vancouver, New Westminster and other centres of the T.B. free area."

New Chemical Discovery

Five years of intensive laboratory research by two University of Toronto chemists has produced chemical methods which make possible the production of sulphur from waste gases. Dr. M. C. Progress Has Been Slow

Television Has Lagged Behind Development Of Sound Transmission. Chevalier Guglielmo Marconi, back in New York, revealed that his new wireless apparatus are expected to give a substantial impetus to television. At the same time he stated that he was more interested in the conveyance of sound than images.

Some great scientific minds have been working on the problems of television, but very little progress has been made. Television has lagged behind compared with the rapid development of sound transmission, which can hardly be improved on. Radio men say sound has reached perfection. At the same time radio listeners are really anxious to become radio lookers. Marvellous as radio is, the public seeks a new thrill.

It will come some day. But will the public like it when they get it? It would be great to see the world series baseball, the Derby, or a big parade, but so far as having to see the corners and croakers of radio as well as listening to them—well, that might be just too bad!—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Egg Grading Change

New Plan Simplifies Grading Of Eggs and Changes Old System

In future graded eggs will consist of "A 1," "A 2," "B" and "C" according to an announcement by the department of Agriculture. This simplifies the grading of eggs and displaces the old system of "Specials," "Extras," "Firsts," and "Seconds."

The word "fresh" will be used only in conjunction with grade "A 1," and the word "fresh" may be applied only to grades "A 1" and "A 2."

All eggs possessing the quality of grade "A 1" may be sold in that grade irrespective of size. However, eggs of different sizes must be packed separately with the size indicated on the container.

Storage eggs will not be permitted to be sold in a higher grade than grade "B."

Gentlemen (who is visiting, to little boy of the house): "And why won't you let me take you on the river in a nice boat?"

Little Boy: "Oh, please, Mr. Tubbs, because I heard pa say that you can hardly keep your head above water, and— I can't swim."

League Issues Warning

Countries Must Abandon System Of Closed National Economies

"There seem to be real signs the depression is gradually lifting," reads a cheering report presented to the League of Nations committee on economic and financial questions.

"In industrial countries," said the report, "production is increasing and unemployment is diminishing, while in the aggregate the exports of countries whose economy is mainly devoted to agriculture and mining are gradually improving."

"At the same time visible stocks of the great majority of raw materials and foodstuffs about which information is available would appear to be declining."

But the report adds warningly, "The point has again been made within the League of Nations that there can be no lasting improvement of the economic situation unless the different countries are prepared to abandon the system of closed national economies which are tending today to become general and which threaten to stifle international trade."

The report was presented by Auguste Schmidt, Estonian Minister to Rome.

Stanley Baldwin Gives An Insight Into The National Character Of The British People

Mr. Stanley Baldwin is one of the broadcasters in a series of talks on "National Character." He has himself in a marked degree the characteristics commonly ascribed to the English. He ought to be able to speak with authority. It is not necessary to follow him in his journey from Britain under the Romans. What is the English character now? No discovery about it is to be expected. Who could stomach an Englishman that didn't grumble? Mr. Baldwin grumbles every day; but "I do not worry and I keep cheerful." So do the English people. And they are "always serene in times of difficulty." That is a trait to be proud of. The English have had their senseless panics and scares, but Mr. Baldwin is justified in saying that "we have staying power; we are not rattled."

When one remembers the years of unemployment and high taxes, one is forced to believe that there must have been a good deal more worrying than Mr. Baldwin takes into account. Still from "British phlegm," or whatever cause, the English are fine lads to stand with their backs against the wall. While more emotional than is generally believed, their cultivation of the art of repression makes a brave show in days of disaster or of doubt—perhaps still more trying.

English humor and laughter are "stock" characteristics. Mr. Baldwin's view. Over here the humorous Englishman has been and may be yet such a figure. "Kindliness, sympathy, with the under-dog, love of home" are other distinctive English qualities. It may be travelling out of the record to say that they are also American, or that the English were long able to hide their sympathy with the Irish. The strong individuality of the Englishman is his faculty. He likes to develop it. Mr. Baldwin tells us. In this country it may seem to be somewhat in a decline. Individuals as they are, the English know how to co-operate naturally. Americans are now manifesting this same faculty. Our old friend, "ordered liberty," is a well known English possession. Many Englishmen, as many Americans in their own case, are often inclined to think that they are getting too little liberty under too many orders. But let us hear Mr. Baldwin and share his hope:

With our pertinacity, with our love of ordered freedom, with our respect for law, with our respect for the individual and our talent for combining in service, indeed, in our strength and in our weakness, I believe from my heart that our people are fitted to pass through whatever trials may be before us, and to emerge wiser and true to their own best traditions, a greater people in the future than they have been in the past.

So may it be with Americans, though "respect for law" can hardly be included among their conspicuous virtues. —New York Times.

Harbors And Isolation

Countries That Now Have Little Use For Transoceanic Facilities

At Cherbourg it would appear that the new harbor improvements are not yet completed. The authorities would therefore seem to be a bit premature in worrying because the big steamship companies continue to make use of tenders instead of coming alongside the docks. It is now stated that some dredging operations to be done in the new channel.

A great new port at Cherbourg, extensive improvements at Southampton and pressure for longer piers in our own North Irish would at first sight be quite out of the current of the times so to speak. Why improve transoceanic facilities when all the nations are going Dingoese, each seeking prosperity and happiness in its own way?

New docks and new giant liners may be folly, or may be the self-assertion of a healthy instinct against the vagaries of the times. There are still people willing to gamble on the chance that the nations may want to resume doing business with each other and visiting each other. —New York Times.

Britain's New Problem

Dole Is Attracting Many Failures Back To Homeland

For thirty years Britain has sent abroad to seek their fortunes some 200,000 emigrants yearly. This has aided the old country as well as the virile and enterprising migrants to other lands. There were failures, most of whom were that before they left their homeland. However, the tide has turned. For the first time no British subjects have left the homeland and 6,000 have gone back to the mother country. These constitute a problem there for the dole attracts some failures back, voluntarily and some are desperate, undesirable anywhere. With mouths to feed at home and new dols demanded the problem is giving Britain some concern. —Brandon Sun.

The Newspaper Habit

People Only Become Daily Readers Half Century Ago

At Yarmouth, England, on Sept. 14, 1883, two small boys, brothers, called at the office of the local evening journal and asked for a job selling papers. They were taken on, and that night sold six dozen each and earned 1s. apiece. One of those brothers is the present Mayor of Yarmouth. The other is Alderman Ernest James Middleton, J.P., who was Mayor in 1922 and again in 1936. This is the head of a company with many branches engaged in the wholesale newspaper trade. In an interview on his fifty years in the newspaper trade, Alderman E. J. Middleton said that when he began his career less than half the inhabitants could read, but the Board Schools were beginning their good work, and fathers took home the evening paper for their better educated children to read the news to them after tea. London papers were only taken by booksellers and stationers to order, and a system was in vogue for lending out the Times for so long at 1d. per hirer. Buying a paper daily was then considered a luxury. It was Queen Victoria's jubilee in 1887, which caused people to become daily paper readers, national interest was keen, and persons who had begun to "taste" a paper formed the habit. The Boer War gave a great impetus to the new custom. —London Times.

Disagrees With "Food Faddists"

Eat What You Like In Moderation Says Old Doctor

Eat what you like. This is the advice of a famous English physician, Sir James Crichton-Browne, and it was given after he had eaten an eight-course dinner given by the Institute of Certificated Grocers at which he was a speaker. He is 93 years of age. Sir James expressed strong disagreement with what he called "food faddists" and said he always ate what he liked and advised his patients to do the same, but in moderation. "About food the most absurd and fantastic nonsense is talked and written," Sir James said.

"Every kind of food is alternately lauded as life-saving and denounced as a poison. The faddists and the cranks are never at rest." The man with a good appetite, a clean plate and commonsense, may go on contentedly consuming the varied foods to which he has been accustomed without risk, he said.

Claims Older Record

What is claimed by the Moscow press as a world record in stunt flying in a glider was achieved by Pilot F. Stepanchenko at Koktebel, Crimea, where a glider school functions. Stepanchenko made 184 somersaults, 13 tumbles and a series of other trick manoeuvres in a glider during a single flight.

Canada has about 250 million acres of land suitable for farming purposes, and of this total 163 and one-half millions are in occupied farms, of which nearly 86 million acres are improved land.

Great Britain Has Attained The Strongest Financial Position Of Any Country In The World

A Bumper Apple Crop

Commercial Yield Is Estimated At 4,598,000 Barrels

A bumper crop of apples is being harvested in Canada this year. The total commercial yield for 1933 is placed at 4,598,000 barrels, an increase of 521,000 barrels over the 1932 production.

Of this year's commercial crop the Province of Nova Scotia will account for 1,846,000 barrels; British Columbia, 1,394,000 barrels; Ontario, 1,061,000 barrels; Quebec, 254,000 barrels and New Brunswick, 40,000 barrels. This year's yield in Nova Scotia is nearly 782,000 barrels more than in 1932. In Ontario the increase is 140,000 barrels compared with last year. In British Columbia the 1933 crop is less than in the previous year.

The total yield of pears this year will be 665,000 bushels, about the same as in 1932. Peaches will, it is estimated, return 825,000 bushels, or about 80,000 bushels below the 1932 production. Plums and prunes will yield 218,000 bushels, a decrease of 64,000 bushels. The total production of grapes is estimated at 14,681,000 pounds or 9,400,000 pounds below the yield in 1932.

Practically all the pears, peaches, plums and grapes grown in Canada for the commercial market come from the provinces of Ontario and British Columbia.

Clings To Old Home

Aged Woman Remains In House Which Is Being Wrecked

World's End Passage is being demolished, but old Mrs. Kent refuses to quit.

World's End Passage is a block of slum houses in the Chelsea district which have been condemned by the London County Council and Mrs. Kent is a 71-year-old, partially paralyzed tenant, whose one room gradually is being pulled down around her.

The old lady steadfastly has declined the alternative accommodation offered her by the local authorities. It takes her five hours to shuffle to the post-office, 250 yards away, to collect her old-age pension.

Taking No Chances

In the early days of the war the officer in charge of a British station in the heart of Africa received the following wireless message from his superior officer:

"War declared: arrest all enemy aliens in your district."

With commendable promptness, the superior officer replied this reply:

"Have arrested seven Germans, three Belgians, two Frenchmen, four Italians, one Austrian, and an American. Please say with whom we are at war."

Further cheering trade reports came from different quarters in London, England, on the heels of the declaration by Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Trade, that Britain has attained the strongest financial position of any country in the world.

September trade figures showed an increase of 66,000,000 in exports over last year, while the greater part of a 43,500,000 increase in imports was in raw materials.

Further production of steel ingots and castings increased by 238,700 tons over the same month last year. Prince George, opening the motor show at the Olympic pointed to an increase of 27 per cent. in domestic production and of 68 per cent. in motor production for foreign trade.

Coincidentally evidence of the strength of the London market, a 43,000,000 conversion of South Africa in 31 1/2 per cent. bonds was snapped up immediately, the lists being closed within five minutes. This duplicated the experience with Canadian, Australian, British and New Zealand loans the last four weeks.

Trade pact negotiations are to be opened shortly with Uruguay, Poland, Spain and Italy, Mr. Runciman announced. Presumably these will be modelled along the pact already concluded this year, notably with Argentina and Scandinavian countries.

While a prominent feature of the pact negotiated with the Scandinavian countries was an undertaking to buy more British coal, Mr. Runciman said British cottons would be given chief attention next. "We are going to make a big effort to place that vast import industry on a satisfactory basis," he said. "After that we shall turn our attention to steel."

Buffalo In Antipodes

Canadian Buffalo From Wainwright Become Acclimatized In Australia

The buffalo which were donated by the National Parks Service of the Canadian Department of the Interior to the South Australian Zoological and Acclimatization Society have had to adapt themselves to a reversal of the seasons. In November, 1929, three buffalo, two cows and one bull, were shipped by the National Parks of Canada from Buffalo National Park, Wainwright, Alberta, to Adelaide, Australia. Precautions were taken for the health of the animals on the journey and after a trip of some ten thousand miles, they arrived at their destination in splendid condition. The animals were given a great reception, but they were not properly rubbed for the occasion because they arrived in January, 1930, one of Australia's hottest months, and were unable at the moment to discard their heavy Canadian winter coats. Within six months, however, they had adapted themselves to the reversed climatic conditions, and in a letter of June 26, 1933, (midwinter), from the Director of the South Australian Zoological Gardens, it is stated that the animals were in their winter coats, were looking very well, and that so far they had reared one calf, which is now about twelve months old, and which promises to grow into a very fine bull.

Not Only The President

List Of Qualifications Go For Prime Minister Too

Grenville Kleiser, writing in New York Evening Post says:

Sir: To be a satisfactory President of the United States, a man must possess many qualifications. Of these I suggest the following:

The patience of a Job.
The generosity of a Plato.
The strength of a Hercules.
The wit of a Voltaire.
The courage of a lion.
The eloquence of a Demosthenes.
The wisdom of a Solomon.
The gentleness of a dove.
The silence of a Sphinx.
The universality of a Shakespeare.
The Post adds: "And a Rhin's skin."

England will import more than one-third of its fruit this year from other empire countries.

Zella Notes

Miss Carter attended the Teacher's Convention at Calgary.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Ingham spent a few days in Calgary during the past week.

Miss Carter and Mrs. Carver spent a very enjoyable evening at the Grange home.

We wonder what mysterious phone call took Bill Grange over to Rugby Sunday evening.

In spite of the stormy weather there 'aint no' snow on the roof of Brown's new 'English' home.

Honoring Miss Helen Moore, a bride-elect of this month, Mrs. Ellis Carver entertained at a miscellaneous shower on Thursday afternoon. In spite of the stormy weather a large number of friends gathered to tender gifts and best wishes.

A very enjoyable social gathering of the Zella Young People's Society was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Rose on Friday evening. The honored guests were Misses Helen Moore and Jane March, and Messrs Trevor Morgan and Eric Kirkland. A hilarious evening was spent in games and contests and followed by a bounteous lunch.

Answer to TRICK SENTENCE

There are 9 F's in the sentence you read in the Atlas Lumber Ad. An average intelligence discovers 6 of them. If you spotted 7 you're above average; if you found 8 you can turn up your nose at almost anybody, while if you caught all 9 you are a genius.

Hunters Have Varying Luck

So far this season the hunters have not been quite as successful as in previous years. The weather has been somewhat adverse and has made hunting more difficult. Reports say that game is none too plentiful.

Cecil Adhead, Jack McCoy and George Murray, of Elmore, hunted west of Rocky Mountain House and came in with two moose. They say the going was bad part of the time and on occasions a compass came in handy to keep their location.

Stewart Tighe, Harold Tighe and Sam Thompson brought in three moose which they got in the Clearwater country.

Mel Hugel and Geo. McKenzie-Grievies went out after big game over the weekend party to start a fire and the only thing he could find was a printed recipe telling how to make Rosebud pancakes.

Frank Morle also came in minus game after having spent ten days in the woods. His party got tired after a couple of days, so he joined up with the Moon outfit for a few days, but without result.

The rest of a hunting party that returned last week said that they didn't see a sheep on their hunt, but Jack Topley brought in a sheep's head. How did he get it? Well, you'll have to ask Jack.

WEEKLY JOKE

A town girl, staying in the country, became friendly with a young farmer. One evening they were strolling across a meadow and saw a cow and her calf rubbing noses in affectionate fashion.

"Ah," sighed the young farmer sheepishly, "that makes me want to do the same."

"Well, go ahead," said the girl calmly, "it's your cow isn't it?"

TAKE ENO'S FRUIT SALT

OCCASIONAL WIFE

by EDNA ROBB WEINSTER

Author of "Joretta," "Lipstick Girl" Etc.

SYNOPSIS

Camilla Hoyt, young and beautiful commercial artist, and Peter Ansoot, a struggling sculptor, meet in an art class and fall in love. She is the adopted daughter of a wealthy family, but she is not to share in their fortune when she comes of age. They are faced with the problem of "marriage or career" and Camilla does not want to let Peter down when he has so much promise as a sculptor. At an art school dance, Gus Matson, Peter's roommate, who is jealous of Peter's success, takes Camilla out on the lawn to tell her "something she should know about Peter." Gus tells Camilla Peter is a cheat, that he only wants her money, and that he, Gus, loves her himself. At that moment Peter appears on the scene and knocks Gus flat. On the way home from the party Camilla tells Peter they are going to do something about their problem.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER XIV.

"We are going to be married, soon, Peter, darling," Camilla told him.
"Why, why, honey, we shouldn't dare to!" incredulously.
"Afraid, Peter?"
"For myself? No, of course not."
"For whom?"
"Why—for you! I couldn't take care of you."
"I shouldn't let you. I'll take care of myself—until you succeed."
"I couldn't let you do that," he protested with finality.

"Why couldn't you, Peter? I'll have to do that, anyway, whether I am your wife or not. Why can't I be your wife, too?"
"My wife!" he repeated, with awe. "You would—take that chance, dear, before I have proved to you that I can do anything worth while?"
"I'd take bigger chances than that to have you and your love. Why not? Where is the risk?"

"Well—suppose I failed, after all? Suppose I never really amount to much?"
"You would still be you, gently. Yes, I suppose so."
"Well, Peter, it's you I love and want. Nothing else makes a lot of difference to me, except that I want for you everything that you want to be, for your sake as much as mine."

"Sweetheart!" he gave her a d-dle demonstration of his appreciation. "What a girl!" he exclaimed and laughed triumphantly. She clung to him, weeping with emotion and reluctant to lose the sweet ecstasy with which it filled her. She was part of the night, its beauty and silence and fragrance, there in his arms with his lips upon hers.

"I wish I needn't ever!" vehemently.
"Then why don't you want to marry me soon?"

"Oh, I don't know!"
"Then you shall. And it won't make a lot of difference to either of us, financially. We shall live just as we had planned before we met."

"But I can't even provide you a decent place to live," he helplessly said. "You won't need to. I just told you that we'll live exactly as we had planned before, except that we shall belong to each other."

"You mean—not even live together?"

"That would be fatal to your work, Peter, and the last thing we should think of doing I shouldn't consider living with you until you are established. You must not think of taking on the responsibilities of a home until then. But that need not keep us from finding a little happiness."

"That isn't the way it should be," he objected.
"You are so stubborn, darling," she sighed. "Not the way it should be, but better than nothing, isn't it? Better than waiting for years—and years—" wistfully.

"You almost convince me," he drew her close again, eagerly. "Are you sure you wouldn't regret it? I can't tell you how much it would mean to me!"

"You needn't, because I know. But I'll marry you, Peter, only on my terms—that you are to assume no responsibilities whatever, and that we shall live apart until you can afford to take care of me. It is your work I am thinking of, Peter."

"More than that?"
"Of course not. After us. But it means everything to us, doesn't it?"

"That's right."
"Suppose we had to wait five years—ten—to have each other—for love?"
"With one long embrace, she gave him her first voluntary kiss before she continued, "just because of a few stupid dollars that we should need, to live together in the regular way that convention follows."

"I know, I suppose it would be impossible, anyway," he admitted. "We are not children. You are almost twenty-one and I am twenty-five, Camilla. We should know what we want to do. But if you insist upon taking care of yourself, why not combine the other fifty-fifty marriages?"
"Too many of those fail, Peter. No. If we marry, our problem requires an individual solution. When a girl tries to be a business woman, a wife and a housekeeper, she almost always fails in one of the three, and that one is usually in being a wife. It would be even worse for a man like you."

"In the first place, you would work alone and have more time to brood over trifles. You are sensitive and would feel your trespassing more than the average man. If we lived together, your studio would have to be our home. When I rushed off to my office-hour job and neglected anything, you would feel that you should do the work because your work tied you to no definite hours. More and more, you would become the mat at home wearing the apron and feeling sorry for your tired working wife. No, Peter, it never would do for us to live together until you have made good."

"How can you be in love and yet so practical?" he wondered with tender amusement.

"That's not being as practical as it sounds," she laughed softly. "Most of all, I want to keep the romance of our marriage, Peter. We can just go on being lovers—having the excitement and expectation of seeing each other after days of separation. Our holidays they will be such happy holidays when we are together for a little while. And those hours together will be so much more precious to us when they are not crowded with housekeeping problems and worries. We shall meet and part as strange lovers. Won't that be much more romantic?"

"But the parting?" he objected.
"You're not a bit like Romeo are you? You know he said that parting is such sweet pleasure."

"What did he know about it? He never parted from you."

She laughed happily and they kissed again. Presently she said slowly, "There's another thing about our waiting for years and years to marry. Do you remember what you said that first night we talked together, about wanting a thing so intensely and so long that finally when you could have it, you didn't want it?"

"Why, Camilla, you don't mean that we could change our minds ever, about wanting each other?"
"It could happen, Peter."

"Oh, sure, even lots of people who marry, change their minds about each other afterward. But not us."

"But that isn't what I mean, dear. I don't think we ever could do that, if we have each other and share everything as we go along. We shall develop together then. But if we have to live on hope alone and go our separate ways, we may drift apart in our interests—well, and find that we are not what each other wanted. There's a phrase running in my mind that someone wrote. The sickening pang of hope deferred." Doesn't that sound ominous?"

"Whatever it is, we are going to take no chances with it," Peter declared.
"But, say," she held him off suddenly. "I'm doing all the arguing about this. It sounds as if I were trying to make you marry me against your will."

"Daring you know that isn't true. You are only convincing me that you are willing to take a bigger chance with me than I have any right to ask of you. Yet I am selfish enough to ask you. Even though I love you better than anything in life," he told her tenderly.

"Because you love me better than anything in life," she corrected him. (To Be Continued.)

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

THE OLD ASSURANCE

Till winter's chill
White fingers stir
The bloom and song of earth,
No heart can guess
The loveliness
Of summer's lyric mirth,
Until love goes
Nobody knows
What light it gave the days,
What charm it lent,
What bliss content
It shed on all life's ways.
Yet, sweet, though soon
The flowers of June
In fragrant dust must lie,
And never fear
Our rose of love can die.

"A really good poker player can make a lot of money apart from his ordinary work," we are told. This is the first time we knew that a really good poker player needed to have any ordinary work.

There is no fool like an old fool who tries to act like a young fool.

Are You WEARY?

Do you find it hard to do things some day? Have your body and brain feel overworked? Are you tired and irritable? Are you unable to do things? The reason is, it is most likely the reason that you are so tired and irritable is that your daily habits, because of irregularity in the quantity of food and low time and the quality of food, are not good. And when you are so tired and irritable, you will find it hard to do things some day. Do you find it hard to do things some day? Have your body and brain feel overworked? Are you tired and irritable? Quick Relief Now From Neuralgia

JACK, IN TO SEE CLARK ABOUT THAT BIG ORDER IN 40 MINUTES AND HAVE TERRIBLE NEURITIS—WHAT CAN I DO?

DON'T WORRY! GET SOME ASPIRIN, TWO TABLETS WILL STOP THAT PAIN IN A FEW MINUTES.

WELL, JACK, I GOT THE ORDER! YES, FELT FIT AS A FIDDLE ... GET ASPIRIN WHEN I WANT QUICK RELIEF FROM PAIN.

Real ASPIRIN Starts Taking Hold in Few Minutes

Now comes amazingly quick relief from headaches, rheumatism, neuralgia, etc., the fastest relief, it is said, yet discovered. These results are due to a scientific discovery by which an Aspirin Tablet begins to dissolve, or disintegrate, in the amazing space of two seconds after touching moisture. And hence to start "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking. The illustration of the glass, here, tells the story. An Aspirin Tablet starts to disintegrate almost instantly as you swallow it. And this is ready to go to work almost instantly. When you buy, though, be on guard against substitutes. To be sure you get ASPIRIN's quick relief, be sure the name Bayer in the form of a cross is on every tablet of Aspirin.

Captain At St. John Transmits Knowledge To Young Sailors

Looking through the window of his office in the customs building, high above St. John harbor, Captain Richard Pollock watches incoming ships manned and commanded by former students of his little navigation school.

Fifteen years ago Captain Pollock left a sanatorium out west where he had been confined by serious illness and noticed an advertisement for a navigation instructor at St. John, N.B. He applied for and obtained the position.

Since then he has instructed hundreds of young men eager to sail on the modern ships of commerce. Some students have gone from distant Canadian points in order to receive instruction from the captain.

The school has two rooms, one main section where aspirants for a master's certificate pore over problems in trigonometry and astronomy, and another for the captain, a salty looking room with sextants, maps and other instruments of the navigator's art.

Captain Pollock went to sea at the age of sixteen, sailing from Greenock, Scotland. Now he gives his knowledge of navigation to younger and stronger men anxious to follow the ocean trails.

A Spring Balance Of Quartz Glass

Can Be Melted Only In The Hottest Of Flames

Quartz is one of the most difficult to melt of all materials. It softens and forms a glass only in the hottest of flames. It is used to make the spiral springs used as delicate balances in certain laboratory research. Such quartz spiral balances are being used at the Forest Products Laboratories of Canada, Department of the Interior, by workers in the pulp and paper Division, Montreal, for the investigation of the relationship between water and paper-making pulps. The quartz is melted in a flame of oxygen and acetylene and drawn into long threads about the thickness of a hair. By the aid of a somewhat less intense flame, these threads are coiled into delicate springs about half an inch in diameter. Enclosed in glass apparatus from which air is removed, they make possible the weighing to extreme accuracy of small samples of pulp. The extension of the quartz spring, read by a small telescope to an accuracy of a thousandth of an inch, indicates the weight of the sample suspended on it.

The King and Queen, who have so many tastes in common, do not share the same views about long train journeys. Her Majesty is said to dislike travelling by night, while the King considers it waste of time to travel in the daytime.

Little Helps For This Week

"God, even our Father, who has loved us and given us everlasting comfort and good hope through grace, comfort your hearts and stablish you in every good word and work." — 2 Thessalonians 2:16, 17.

When sorrow all our heart would ask, We need not shun our daily task, And hide ourselves for calm; The herbs we seek to heal our woe Familiar by our pathway grow. Our common air is balmy.

J. Keble.

When we turn away from some duty or some fellow creature saying our hearts are too sick and sore with some great yearning of our own, we may sever the line on which a Divine message was coming to us. We shut out the man, and we shut out the angel who had sent him on to open the door. There is a plan working in our lives, and if we keep our hearts quiet and our eyes open it all works together, and if we do not it all fights together and keeps on fighting till it comes right somehow, somewhere. — Annie Keary.

WEDDINGS.

FORD—CLEMENTS.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Robertson, Carstairs, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Thursday November 9th, when Ray Louise Clements became the bride of Charles Ross Ford, the Rev. A. J. Mitchell officiating.

The marriage took place beneath an arch decorated with yellow and white streamers. As the Wedding March was being played by Mrs. Paul Richards, of Calgary, the bride entered on the arm of Mr. Paul Richards, who gave her in marriage. She was charmingly dressed in a gown of canary-yellow crepe trimmed with white fur. Her shoes were of white kid, and she carried a bridal bouquet of pale pink and yellow Ophelia roses.

The bride was attended by Miss Lucille Smith, wearing a gown of mauve satin and shoes of black suede. She carried pink carnations. The groom's brother, Mr. Milton Ford, acted as best man. During the signing of the register Mr. A. M. Robertson sang "Because."

The groom's gift to the bride was a green gold bracelet; to the bridesmaid crystal earrings, and to the best man a pearl and amethyst tiepin.

Following the ceremony the guests sat down to a bounteous turkey dinner the table being centred with a beautiful wedding cake and decorations of yellow and white streamers and yellow tapers. The happy pair left immediately for Calgary, where they spent a brief honeymoon, Mr. Ford having to resume his teaching duties at Didsbury on Monday.

Excepting Mr. and Mrs. Paul Richards, of Calgary, the wedding party consisted entirely of Didsbury people. The bride for the past 4 years has been a popular member of the Didsbury General Hospital staff, while the groom is principal of the Didsbury Public School.

The hostess, Mrs. A. M. Robertson, charmingly groomed in black crepe-back satin, received the guests, who were: Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Ford, Mr. Gordon Ford, Mr. Milton Ford, the Rev. A. J. Mitchell, and Miss Lucille Smith, all of Didsbury, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Richards, Calgary.

NIKOLAUS—LOEWEN.

On Wednesday, Nov. 8th, 1933, at the Monastic Parsonage, Didsbury, Otto Frederick Nikolaus, of Three Hills, and Rose Linda Loewen, of Allingham, were united in marriage by the Rev. V. K. Snyder.

BLAIN—MUNRO.

A wedding of interest to a wide circle of friends was solemnized by the Rev. George Dickson, Calgary, on Friday, November 10th, when Jessie Olga Munro was united in marriage with Everett Blain, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Blain, of Didsbury.

The bride, who wore an ankle-length gown of Royal blue crepe, was attended by her sister, Ella, who wore grey flat-crepe. Lester St. Clair acted as groomsmen.

After a short honeymoon spent in Calgary, Mr. and Mrs. Blain will take up their residence east of Didsbury.
